Times Theater Critic Roy Berko

“Intriguing, fascinating, fun, confounding, involving and surprising are just some of the words I heard from the audience after the opening night performance of BEYOND BELIEF, award-winning Joshua Seth’s display of illusion at Playhouse Square’s Kennedy’s-Down-Under. Due to the small venue, everyone gets into the act. (Yes, he even got a Times newspaper theatre critic on stage.) Seth conjured up people’s numbers, names, hobbies, pets’ names and travel desires. It’s fun, it’s astounding, it’s a delight for everyone. Capsule judgment: Beyond Belief: An Intimate Evening of Psychological Illusion is a one of a kind experience that is a must see! Fun, delightful, full of intrigue, a MUST SEE!” Roy Berko - American Theatre Critics Association

The News-Herald

“Seth, his back turned to another gentleman from the audience, was able to determine each of the, say, eight to 10 cards the man pulled from a deck. The night continued to be spooky-cool from there as Seth did his best John Edward impression, calling out for members of the audience (“Is that you, Eunice?”) and correctly guessing personal information about them — trips they’ve taken, types and names of pets, etc. Either Seth is spending a good chunk of change to rig a small performance place with bugs or filling it with audience plants or, just maybe, he is truly psychic.”

Spangle Magazine

The readings are where things get interesting. “Sensing” the room, he truly had the audience gasping at the details of their lives that he extracted from the ether. Pet names, years, vacation destinations — I’m still trying to understand just how he sussed out those facts. Maybe he is psychic. (Nah, but there’s certainly some talent that’s beyond my fathoming, yet highly intriguing.) ...Still, if you like this kind of thing, you’ll surely be picking up your jaw from the floor by the end of the evening.
